

"...that they might be called trees of righteousness"

I was reminded yesterday following a conversation with one of our students, that many of us are still struggling with issues involving the COVID-19 crisis but also other issues that have not been put on hold just because of the reality of our current situation.

I was immediately convicted of my need to be in prayer which is the best support I can offer others who are in need. I also want to encourage you to be praying for each other, for our students and for our families as everyone struggles through these challenging times.

God is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in trouble. Therefore we will not fear, though the earth give way and the mountains fall into the heart of the sea, though its waters roar and foam and the mountains quake with their surging.
